75-MILLION POUNDS NEEDED FOR POOL

Four More Counties Have Reached 75 Per Cent Goal—Big Crowd At Meeting

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 22—More than one hundred million pounds of the burley tobacco crop had been signed to the marketing plan of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association when the greatest tobacco conference in the history of the state adjourned here Friday, after Aaron Sapiro, of California, delivered an inspiring address in which he congratulated the workers on what they had accomplished and urged them to redouble their efforts to sign up within the next three weeks the 75,000,000 pounds necessary to the success of the pool.

The ball room at the Phoenix Hotel was filled with chairs and every available inch of space taken when Vice Chairman James C. Stone called the meeting to order at 2 o'clock.

A call of the counties showed that besides the ten previously reported as having raised their quotas—Fayette, Woodford, Bourbon, Bath, Carrollton, Montgomery, Lincoln, Nicholas, Spencer and Fleming—Clark, Jessamine, Nelson and Oldham had raised their quotas and that a number of others are still working and endeavoring to obtain all of the tobacco grown in their borders.

Judge Bingham, in his address presenting Mr. Sapiro to the conference, said that "though Mr. Sapiro was in demand in all parts of the United States at $1,000 a day, he had come to Kentucky to help in this work without even a guarantee of his expenses," and that he showed he had a "great heart as well as a great mind and that money was not everything to him."

Organization Manager Joseph Pasquamean told the growers that the goal for each of the counties to raise its quota would be sent to the chairman within the next few days.

Cheers and handclaps greeted Judge Robert W. Bingham, whom Mr. Stone said that with such a group of men as was present "nothing can be done, and we are going to put this thing over." Judge Bingham said "this must be a great day for Aaron Sapiro, as he has come to fruition the seed he had planted." Judge Bingham told of his talk with Bernard Barnich about Mr. Sapiro, who had agreed to come to Kentucky "without even his expenses paid, though Mr. Barnich had told him that Sapiro was a $1,000 a day man."

Those from Madison county who attended the meeting were County Chairman T. S. Burnam, C. E. Chenault, W. O. Burke, R. J. Turley, L. H. Neale, M. F. Arnsbeck, Paul Burnam, William Arnsbeck, and T. D. Chenault.

NAVY MAN IS AFTER BIG GAME

(By Associated Press)

Shanghai, China, Sept. 8 (By Mail)—Commander E. H. Cope, of the U. S. Navy, who has held the post of paymaster at Shanghai for the past several years, carrying out a wholly novel purpose in connection with a big game hunt that is to precede his return to America for a new assignment, as he has been transferred. Having sailed from Shanghai in August, he is going after big game in Indo-China, and he intends, he said before he sailed, to shoot a tiger with a revolver. Commander Cope has long been known as one of the best, if not the best, revolver shot in the United States Navy. He has captured virtually all the trophies for revolver shooting in the Far East.

Admiral Beatty Arrives On Liner Aquitania

New York, Oct. 21—Escorted by a squadron of destroyers, the liner Aquitania, bearing Admiral Earl Beatty, of the British navy, arrived here today. He will be the guest of the American Legion and will address the Kansas City Convention. Beatty's real mission is to serve as adviser to the British delegation at the disengagement conference.

FIVE IN ONE AT BEREA COLLEGE

MADISON HI GOES DOWN IN DEFEAT

Purple and White Warriors Lose To Hustonville Team By Score of 3 to 0

Berea, Oct. 22—Primary school members well out of their teens, as well as grown and reverend seniors in college, most of them younger than some of the pupils just learning to read, are one of the seemingly paradoxical features of Berea College. It is one of the few institutions of learning in the land in which a student may secure an education running from the rudiments to an A. B. degree, and also one of the few colleges where a grown but uneducated man or woman may begin at the beginning.

There are five schools in Berea College. The most interesting is the Foundation School, open to students from fifteen years up. As the name implies, it starts from the foundation, welcoming to its precincts older as well as younger students who have never had a chance to study.

The Academy is the equivalent of the usual preparatory school or high school course, which gets ready for college those students who wish to continue further than the primary grades.

The Vocational School brings to the students a knowledge of pursuits which they may desire to use in their choice of a life-work. Shops, a herd of cattle, an experimental farm, a hospital for courses in nursing, and other equipment are ready for vocational school students.

The College itself carries students from the Academy to their degrees of A. B. and is the equal of any College course in the South. Many of its graduates return to their mountain homes as teachers at graduation.

The Normal School is used for the training of students as teachers and gives a certificate for this purpose. Many of the school teachers in the mountain districts are Berea's product. With these six schools ready for the mountain boy or girl, Berea College is prepared to perform a duty to education with unique chances of service.

The development of the five schools is an outgrowth of Berea's desire to be everything to the mountain people who depend upon it. It could do this only by being ready to give to all who asked anything that was desired in the way of courses or teaching. That the scheme is a success is shown by the fact that in the year just completed 2,500 students passed through the open doors of Berea.

With an ideal situation, a huge clientele to draw from and the good will of the mountain people, one thing has handicapped Berea—the lack of money. It friends have been many, and new and much-needed equipment and buildings have appeared as by magic. But the old methods of raising money no longer suffice to meet the rapidly growing demands, so Berea is taking part in a campaign to be known as the Berea Necessity Fund. The sum being sought is $1,000,000, and the acquisition of it will relieve emergency conditions of overcrowding, provide equipment and increase faculty salaries.

Ex-Service Men Here

REAL OPPORTUNITY KNOCKING AT DOOR

Two Automobiles Can Be Won By a Real Worker Entering Today—Don't Delay

Get on the right side in the subscription drive. The race for these valuable and desirable prizes offered by this paper is just getting to go start, many of the long list of nominees whose friends recommend them for their energy and all round ability, are hesitating and so far only a small proportion of this long list has actually gone to work. Some sages said, "He who hesitates is lost," but in this case the nominees won't be lost—he will win merely get a slow start and then require a greater effort to win. But win he can if he will take his subscription book and get busy right now. We have known many workers to get started when a contest was nearly half over and win out with flying colors. That same thing can be done in this contest if the same quality is in the heart and backbone of the worker. We believe the right kind of backbone grows right here in this county.

How Contestants Stand

The following is a list of the nominees in the Daily Register Contest. If your name is not in the list, send it in at once. New names are added each day.

Vote 'Ne' on Second Amendment!

A writer in the LaGrange New Er gives some enlightening information as to the working of proposed constitutional amendment, which is designed to make flexible ten per cent of the state school fund. What he says about Oldham county will apply equally as well in Madison county. It's worth reading, anyway, and studying carefully before the ve-ters go to the polls to vote on those constitutional amendment on November 8. It follows:

The second school amendment provides that not more than ten per cent of the Public Scholars be distributed other than upon the per capita basis. In other words, ten per cent will be released from the Constitutional restrictions and this means that i will be put under the control of the State Board of Education virtually under the control of the State Superintendent.

This is the amendment that seems to us to be more dangerous of the two. Advocates of the amendment cry "Take off the hand of the State Superintendent out of politics," and in this manner ha-succeeded in drawing the at-ention of voters from the second amendment wherein the real danger lies. Many objections can't be made but in this article we inten-to mention only two.

The first is political. Amendment provides that one-tenth of the general school fund shall vi-

An excellent picture of Miss Cynthia Davison, of Richmond but well known here, where she taught a year or so ago, appears on the front page of the Cincinnati Post. She is director of music and soloist at the evangelistic meeting which is being conducted at the Central Christian church in Newport. Under her picture J. Wesley McClain, president of the Louisville Conservatory, is quoted as saying of her: "She possesses an exceptional voice of pure quality, which she manages excellently, in addition to its smooth and musical quality, her appreciation of style and unusual good diction, makes her singing very commendable." — Stanford

A TRIBUTE

In the passing of Elizabeth Ar-old Hanger the community loses one of its most cultured and highly refined women, and hearts and heads are bowed in sorrow at the death of friend and kinsman.

Mrs. Hanger was married to Harry Baylor Hanger on January 18, 1893, this being her birthday, and at her passing she was 51 years of age. To this union was born four children: Harry Baylor Hanger, Jr., Arnold Hanger, Paul Hanger, (who preceded his mother to the Great Beyond five years ago), and Elizabeth Hanger.

As a mother, too much cannot be said in her praise. Her great devotion to her children and untiring efforts in their behalf were no ticeable to even a casual observer and in these four splendid children can be found depicted many of the admirable traits of character that things which would add to her possessed by their accomplish their pleasure in every possible recognized and thoroughly appreciated by every life which had any connection.

Mrs. Hanger was a graduate of Science Hill at Shellville, Ky., and also of the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston. She lived music and never failed to avail herself of every opportunity to add improvement to her talents in this line. She was a member of the Cecilian Club of Richmond since its early inception, and never failed to contribute her full quota to its advancement and well-being, and the message she brought in song will linger in the hearts of those who loved her.

She was a woman of most exin her every surrounding. Her was but a reflection of her own artistic nature, and her charming

Her loyalty to her friends was

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

© Western Newspaper Union.
LEWIS WETZEL, "DEATH WIND OF THE DELAWARES"

Many of the great scouts did not become Indian fighters until they were men, but Lewis Wetzel started early. He killed his first Indian when he was only thirteen years old. Wetzel was born in Virginia in 1752. His father moved to the present site of Wheeling, W. Va., and was killed there by the Indians before the eyes of his sons. Lewis swore eternal enmity against all redskins.

One day while he and his brother were roaming in the woods they were attacked by Indians. Lewis killed one of the savages and the next instant was hit by a bullet which carried away a piece of his breast bone. Both boys were taken captive. That night while the Indians slept, Wetzel worked loose the ploughs which bound him and unfastened his brother.

After the boys had fled for about a mile they discovered that their meat was torn to shreds. Leaving his brother in hiding, Lewis returned to the Indian camp and, undetected by the sleeping savages, reached them in two pairs of moccasins as well as a gun and some powder and lead.

The next morning the Indians were hot on their trail and soon were close upon them. As the Indians approached, the boys stepped out of the trail into a clump of bushes, allowing their pursuers to speed past, and then followed. Soon they heard the Indians coming back and again they stepped into the bushes and hid. The Wetzel boys played this dangerous game of hide-and-seek several times before they finally eluded the savages and returned in safety to their home.

When Lewis Wetzel grew older he crossed over into Ohio and soon became one of the best-known scouts in the country.

Wetzel was called "The Death Wind" by the Delaware whom he hated particularly. More than once a Delaware warrior trembled with fear as he heard a shrill, mounting cry echoing through the forest, for it usually was followed soon afterward by a shot from the scout's deadly weapon which ended the redskin's life.

In his later years Wetzel lost the respect of many people because he began killing all Indians he met, whether hostile or friendly, and several times he was imprisoned for shooting members of peaceable tribes. In his last days he became a lonely, bitter old man until death came to him in 1808.

REFORM CASE GOES TO COURT OF APPEALS

By Associated Press

Frankfort, Oct. 22—The right of the State Board of Charities and Corrections to decline to release a delinquent juvenile committed to the House of Reform at Greenlade when that juvenile has not been committed for committing a crime and the right of sober 1920 at the request of his board to require that inmates father. The commitment read off the institution undergo surgical operations, are questioned said juvenile court by due process of law."

Circuit Court received here in the case of Sullivan vs. State Board of Charities and Corrections. The lower court refused to issue a writ of mandamus to compel the original decree so as to allow the boy to return home but with the provision that a parole officer might visit him. The superintendent and board refused to honor the order and the petition says that under no circumstances would they release the boy until he had had an operation for removal of his tonsils and some adenoids.

The appeal asks the court to decide the powers of the court and the board. The boy refused to undergo the operation and, it is alleged, years old, was committed in Oct. 1 was severely punished.
